#14 - Tabby Tracker

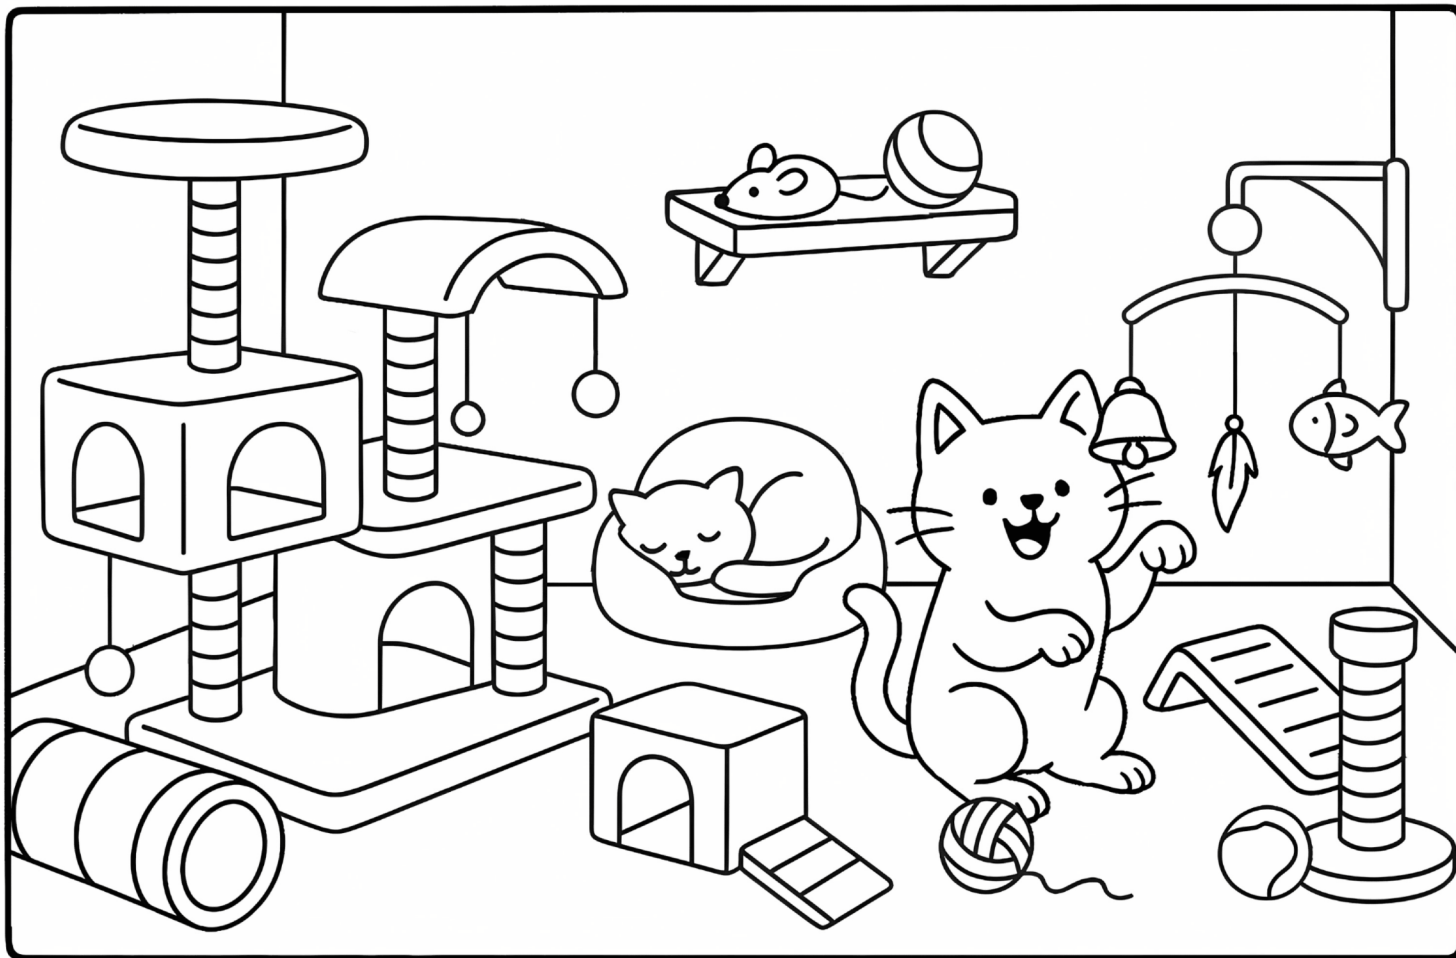

A black and white line drawing of a large, striped cat sitting and looking forward. The cat has a white body with black stripes on its legs and tail. Its tail is curled on the ground. A small mouse is peeking out from behind the cat's hind legs. The cat has large, upright ears and whiskers. The drawing is simple and cartoonish.

[illegible]

All domestic cats carry the tabby gene—even if it doesn't show! The tabby pattern comes in stripes, swirls, or spots, and that signature "M" on the forehead is a natural marking passed down from their wildcat ancestors.
